1. INTRODUCTION

Each year the Mathematical Sciences Institute ('MSI') may offer one or more awards known as the SR Wilson Travel Award ('the award').

The objective of the travel award is to allow a latter year undergraduate to attend an Australasian conference in statistical science and its applications.

Funding for this prize has been provided by Emeritus Professor Susan R Wilson in the hopes this will encourage mathematics students to pursue research interests in statistical science, and also encourage statistical science students to pursue research interests in mathematics.

2. BENEFITS
